The Uncomfortable Truth About Money

How to live with uncertainty and learn to think for yourself

By Paul Podolsky

We are all stuck in a money cage. Money isn't the most important thing, but it is a thing and you can't get away from it. Birth costs money and death costs money. So even if you hate talking about money, you need to know the basics, the same way you need to know how to cook yourself a simple meal.

The problem with most money books is that they are not written by practitioners and avoid hard truths. What a weathered investor knows is that stocks are not always good for the long run. They know that being stingy helps accrue wealth. They know the big thing when you buy property has nothing to do with the property. They know the big thing is less what happens to the markets in a day than if the entire system holds together. And they know what to look for if it's time to pull out.

This new book will teach you a lifetime of money learnings distilled to a thin volume, like a basic cooking recipe you can follow.

Buffett's Early Investments helps readers understand how history's greatest ever investor really made his returns in the years where he produced his best numbers – and what that means for investors today.

Unicorns, Hype and Bubbles

A guide to spotting, avoiding and exploiting investment bubbles in tech

By Jeffrey Funk

New technologies are an investment minefield. Putting money behind them means taking a risk on unproven ventures, often from inexperienced (and potentially unscrupulous) developers. While some will lead the investor to fantastic gains, many others turn out to be mere bubbles – a flimsy veneer of excitement and hype with little profitable at the core.

From cryptocurrencies, blockchain, the metaverse, Web3, and NFTs, to self-driving vehicles, delivery drones, solid state batteries, eVTOLs, and more, technology bubbles have been inflating and popping for many years. Each time a bubble pops, tens if not hundreds of billions of investment dollars disappear with them.

Unicorns, Hype, and Bubbles arms the reader with the tools required to differentiate between bubbles and genuine, sustainable technological revolutionaries.

Cycles

The mysterious forces that trigger events

By Edward R. Dewey with Og Mandino

Edward R. Dewey was chief economist in the Hoover Administration and tasked by President Hoover to figure out what caused the 1929 stock market crash and ensuing depression.

In the course of his extensive investigations, he became convinced that something important was missing from our collective knowledge of how economies and societies work – a working knowledge of cycles. He was joined in his quest to establish a “science of cycles” by other leaders of his time, including Ivy League scientists, Smithsonian Directors, Industrial CEOs, Ambassadors, and political leaders.

This trading classic, now back in print, was first published in 1971. Cycles was Dewey’s answer to President Hoover’s question and to many more questions which had arisen from his decades of research.

The Geometry of Wealth

How to shape a life of money and meaning

By Brian Portnoy

How does money figure into a happy life? Behavioral finance expert Brian Portnoy delivers an inspired answer, building on the critical distinction between being rich and being wealthy.

While one is an unsatisfying treadmill, the other is the ability to underwrite a meaningful life, however one chooses to define that. Truly viewed, wealth is funded contentment.

In this accessible and entertaining book, Portnoy reveals that true wealth is achievable for many – including those who despair it is out of reach – but only in the context of a life in which purpose and practice are thoughtfully calibrated.
